Otterbein is . . .

the center of our growth . . . the basis for the direction of our lives . . . the ground for our hopes . . . the provisions for our future . . . home among a larger family of men and ideas . . . social growth . . . the bestower of education . . . the focal point of rebellion, reconciliation, direction, ideas and ideals integrity, dignity, anxiety, hope, energies, tensions and their release. Otterbein is her students, their social and academic life, her faculty, in its dealings with the students. She is the parent, sometimes felt to be too protective, to whom we owe a great deal of responsibility. She disciplines us, nudges us, deals out punishment and much understanding sympathy. From us she receives devotion and sometimes deep dedication. Otterbein is the reflection of our lives . . .

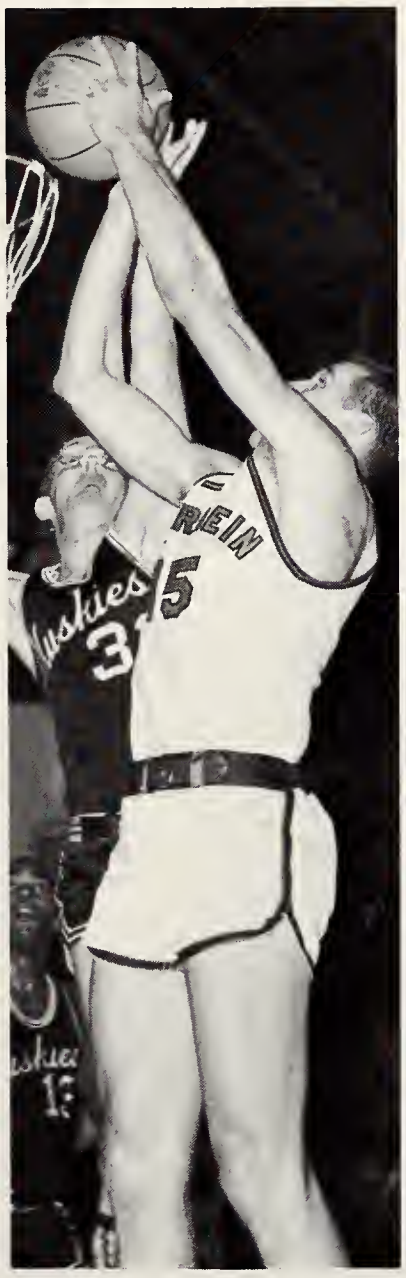
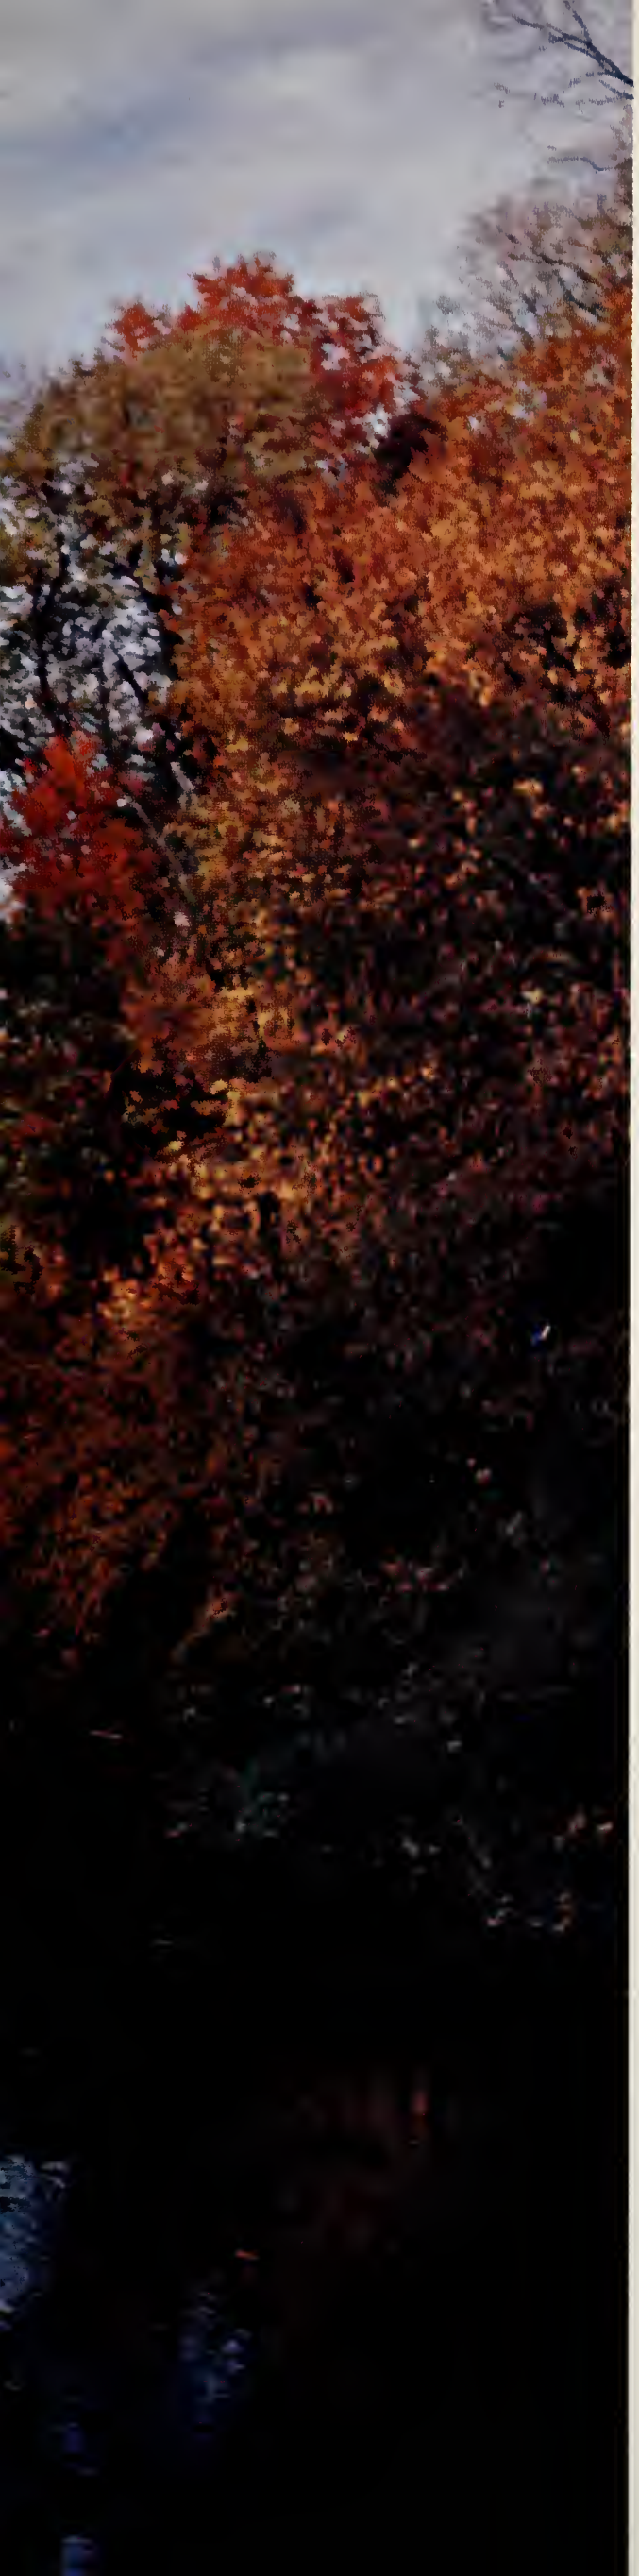
. . . through the years seasons.





In the Amber Haze of Autumn

New and returning students entered into the revival of Otterbein traditions. The Freshman Talent Show, mixers on the tennis courts, Bonfire, Scrap Day, football, classes . . .

In the fall, the Otterbein atmosphere was a mixture of anticipation and a little anxiety . . . intense ideals, aggravating apathy . . . exuberant, boisterous, athletic, and sometimes extremely boring study breaks . . . it was new faces, new friendships, new ideas and endeavors, discussion and dialogue, experiments in an unknown sphere, an inquisitive search for personal integrity . . . Opportunities were immense, and for each of us the possibilities for success were dependent upon our acceptance of these challenges . . .

The fall semester began with the arrival of the class of '69 . . . Taking advantage of the lull before the start of classes, the freshmen became acquainted with many aspects of campus life. Then, all too soon, came the arrival of the upper-classmen and the culminating event of orientation week: the freshmen talent show . . . Sharing honors at this event were first place winner, Robert Wood, and second place winner, Kay Brinkman.

Through events like the "big-little sis" picnic and the Y mixer, freshmen became a part of life at Otterbein.

To officially open the home football season, the freshman class worked diligently to build a bigger and better bonfire. Then as the cry, "Come on Otters, let's beat Kenyon!" rang through the Quiet Peaceful Village, Beanie Queen Patsy Schar and King John Baffa led the class around and around the fire.

. . . And then there was the day that the Quiet Peaceful Village lost touch with the world . . . Scrap Day . . .

Opposing forces ranged themselves along a battlefield which encompassed the entire campus . . . Enemy spies sabotaged the freshman side of Alum Creek with grease and water . . . Canoes were mysteriously over-turned . . . Mud-slinging and water fights were the germ warfare of both warring sides . . .

The hostilities were of short duration, and at the end of the day the sophomore battalion was in possession of the battlefield, and the freshmen had been unceremoniously drubbed and tossed into the dirty drink . . .

The contests, from the organized to the unorganized, were notable for "good clean fun . . ."

Some people called it a Tug-of-War . . . others called it sabotage . . .

Dances, entertainment, and freshmen orientation were part of the excitement and fun of the fall season. All too soon the real purpose of college was upon us, and the fun turned into serious study, lectures, and tests . . .

. . . crisp and colorful Autumn leaves . . . a chill in the air . . . cider and do-nuts . . . a flash of color as the cheerleaders contort in the air . . . the crack of pads as the players make contact . . . the frenzied yells of the wild crowd as the Otters near the goal line . . . the satisfaction and pride of victory and a game well played . . . football.

Jan Lenahan and Karen Brubaker present honors to Mr. & Mrs. William Gill.

Parents-of-the-Day.

The aroma of burning leaves and the nip in the fall air meant a visit to Otterbein for the annual Parents' Week-end. One of the highlights of the week-end was the Otterbein-Oberlin game.

During the half-time festivities, Mr. & Mrs. William Gill were honored as the parents-of-the-day. The day was filled with joyous greetings of parents, tears, and a little green stuff for those depleted wallets . . .

Deep concentration, determination, and the "spirit of O.C." drive the Otters to victory. Whether upstairs in the pressbox or out on the field, there is the will to do their best from the coaches, staff, and team . . .

Homecoming . . . The day began early with the Homecoming Parade . . . The theme was famous firsts . . . Imagination was the keynote in many of the original floats . . . The first false teeth, fire, and original sin were among the winners in the float contest . . .

Otterbein played Marietta in the game that afternoon and pleased students and alumni with a 10—0 victory . . . At half time, Judy Morison, a senior from Cleveland was crowned 1965 Homecoming Queen . . .

The day was climaxed with the presentation of "Annie Get Your Gun" followed by the Homecoming Dance.

First place in the sorority float contest went to Kappa's. Their entry was the 1st false teeth.

It was also color: Blues . . . greens . . . reds . . . and golds all helped make the 1965 Otterbein Homecoming.

Candidates were nominated by the sororities. Each girl was interviewed by Rick Petersen, Student Senate President.

The candidates were: Lana Rinehart, Theta Nu; Carol Sockel, Rho Kappa Delta; Ruth Barnes, Kappa Phi Omega; Kam McClure, Epsilon Kappa Tau; Sandy Svozil, Sigma Alpha Tau; Sherrie Washburn, Tau Delta; Judy Morison, Tau Epsilon Mu. Kam McClure was chosen first attendant, and Lana Rinehart was the Maid of Honor. Judy Morison was named the Homecoming Queen.

Student Senate President Rick Petersen presented the traditional Queen's bracelet to Judy.

1964 Queen, Susan Lang Danhoff returned to crown the 1965 Queen.

Otterbein renewed its traditional Cap-Otter rivalry with Capital University, as their drill teams braved the crisp morning air to be judged for marching precision. To chase the chill, the R.O.T.C. Pep Band provided lively military marches. But, Otterbein came out on the short end of the stick as the Angel Flight and the drill team were outdone, 704 to 692. These defeats forshadowed another victory for Capital as they dropped the Otters on the gridiron that night by a score of 53 to 6. To no avail the teams had been boosted by the W.O.B.N. marathon on the Campus Center Mall . . .

For some, it was the action of the vividly colored balls on a billiard table; others unwound with the action on a color T.V. . . . The bookstore provided a place to browse and pick up an extra note book or the latest magazine . . .

The fall season at Otterbein was brightened considerably by the outstanding lecturers, performing groups, and guest stars who visited the campus.

The sixth annual Festival of Arts provided an exciting week of events portraying satire and the arts. A print exhibition composed of works of well known artists was held in the Campus Center. Lecturer, Dr. George Test, author of the "Satire Newsletter," spoke on "Satire, Love and Marriage, and the American Way of Life." In an illustrated lecture on his international best seller, "The Gospel According To Peanuts," Robert Short provided his theological perspectives on these modern parables. For a comic relief, the Festival offered Peter Sellers in the hilarious film satire on big business and labor unions, "I'm All Right Jack." "The World of Pantomime and Dance" by Mata and Hari showed that satire could be portrayed through dance, movement, and gesticulation. An informal Coffee House gave students and faculty a chance to try their own brand of satire. And as an added highlight, Hal Holbrook recreated the world famous satirist and humorist in "Mark Twain Tonight" on the Cowan Hall stage . . .

The Lecture—Convocation Series brought Rev. George St. Angelo, chaplain at North Central College, to keynote this year's Religion-in-Life Conference. The Cambridge University Debate team challenged an Otterbein team on the topic of Socialized Medicine. Danforth lecturer, Miss Lisa Sergio, spoke on "New Nations at the Crossroads." Other noted speakers included Earl Lubell, science editor of The New York Tribune, whose topic was "Will the Sciences Destroy Society?" and Dr. Murray B. Levin, expert on "The Kennedy Art of Campaigning."

Guests of the Artist Series were the Toronto University Choir and the widely-known Norman Luboff Choir.

"Rush" began quietly behind closed doors. Each sorority girl learned the phrase, "Get to know her!" Formal Rush brought tension. Nights were consumed making lists and novelty party favors. The parties encompassed everything from South Sea swabbies to flappers and beatniks. The anticipation, built over the weeks of Rush, climaxed in a burst of tears and a squeal of joy. Rush was over and pledging had begun . . .

The annual R.O.T.C. Talent Show again produced a slate of widely varied talents. It was mid-semester and many students were glad to forsake their text books for the footlights. The talents which they presented ranged from a shapely silhouette and a saucy song to righteous rock and roll and a kindergartener's quips. The proceeds of the evening were added to the Otterbein R.O.T.C. Webster-Irmler Scholarship Fund . . .

In the Frosty Breath of Winter . . .

Otterbein was basketball with a capital B . . . Alumni Gym exploding with the release of 2000 tensions . . . the draft that engulfed the snack bar . . . when the door opened . . . furlined boots . . . skating on Alum Creek . . . pledging . . . Christmas vacation.

Academically it signaled an end and a beginning. Apprehension . . . long nights of endless review . . . coffee and candy bars . . . panic . . . more coffee . . . more panic . . . term papers . . . finals . . . panic.

Grades eventually came out and the panic receded. The depleted ranks came back to campus with an invigorated sense of anticipation and relief.

The new semester was not to be a rehash of the old. After all, wasn't Spring returning . . . ?

Students returned from Thanksgiving vacation bursting with new gossip . . . Coffee klatch's, pauses in the halls, . . . a time to renew the ties . . .

The annual PanHel Dance was held at Valley Dale on December 3. People came out of hibernation; long formals came out of storage . . . Girls for the night were ladies and guys were gentlemen . . . At 2 A.M., cars turned into pumpkins and everyone turned in for the night . . .

December was filled with the anticipation of Christmas . . . Early in the month decorations appeared in front of the Campus Center. Sorority caroling, fraternity parties for children, and the Christmas tree lighting brought increased excitement. The climax was reached the night before vacation as the students visited the homes of the faculty to enjoy with them the spirit of Christmas. Each departing student took with him the joy of fellowship and the relief of a long awaited vacation. . .

Greek sponsored Christmas parties revealed how the joy and excitement of Christmas grew on Otterbein's campus.

After the weeks of waiting, THE day arrived. Two weeks of rest . . . term papers and finals? Later! MERRY CHRISTMAS!

"We're here to fight for dear old Otterbein" . . . The cheer went out, and the crowd in one great mass rose. The pride of Otterbein roared onto the floor. Basketball was king, and success was the result. The most victories in any season in Otterbein history (20—5) brought national recognition and personal laurels for individual team members. For the second year the Otters went all the way to the finals of the Ohio Conference Tournament. It was a year to remember . . .

As the lights went out in Alumni Gym, a spot light followed Mike Green into the suspense filled crowd. It was Winter Homecoming and Mike, as Varsity O President, had the pleasure of finding the 1966 Winter Homecoming Princess. He stopped . . . the crowd burst into applause . . .

From the sea of faces Mike led Eileen Coad across the floor to the throne, where first attendant Barb Fisher and Maid of Honor Anne Barr waited. Eileen, stuned at first, received the crown with the composure of a Princess.

Eileen Coad, Winter Homecoming Princess.

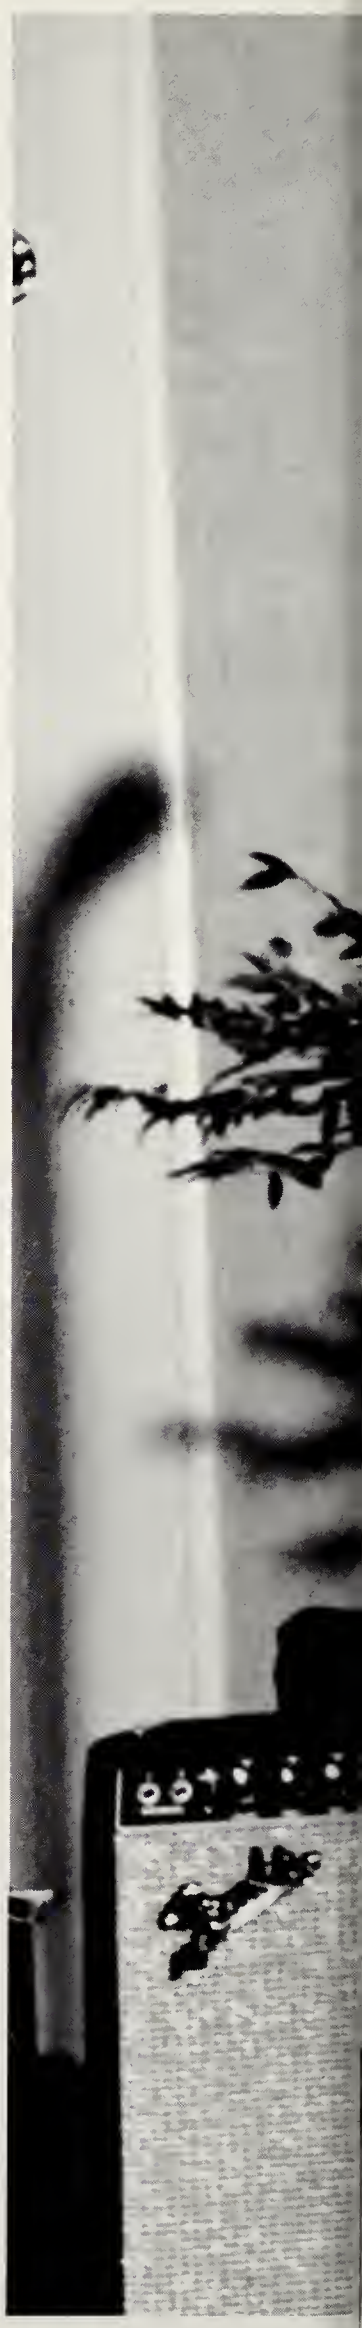
CASUALS



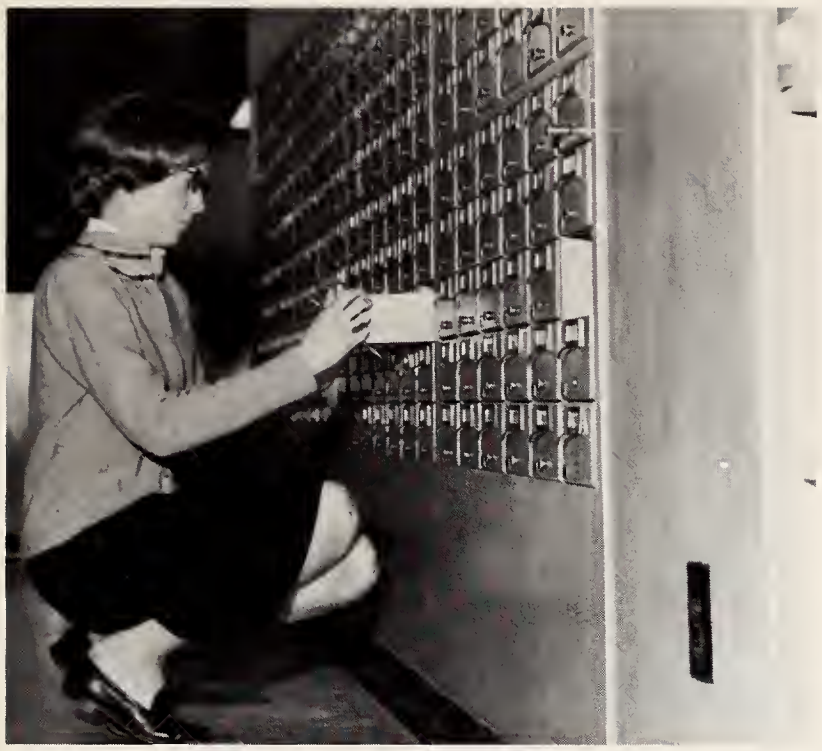
Leadership, school spirit, and a desire to further the ideas of Otterbein were the qualities which determined the selection of the 1966 Sibyl Queen. The Sibyl staff felt that Jan Lenahan possessed all of these attributes . . . the representative Otterbein woman.

As a Junior Counselor, Student Senate member, and through her work on many committees, Jan displayed her desire to work for Otterbein throughout her college career.

And then they were upon us . . . Finals were characterized by some by a rise in coffee sales, television hours, and all night card games. For others it brought vertigo, headaches, diminished fingernails and the sudden revelation that "These courses could have been exciting if I had started studying sooner!"

Conferences in the halls usually followed the pattern of, "What do you suppose that he will ask?" or "Did you get that paper in?" Sometimes one could hear the wails, "I've got 37 chapters to read and four tests before finals even begin!" Or, "I've got Psyc., Biology and Western Civ. all in the same day, and that's UGLY . . . "

TRACK



Finals were over, and the tension was broken . . . Everyone met the same barrage of questions, "How d'ya think ya did?" "Where'd he dig up that question?" "You gonna be back next semester?" For many it was a time to relax and forget. For others though, semester break meant preparation for the next semester's work. But no matter in what manner the vacation was spent, the pressure was off . . .

"Psychology 101, Religion 202, and Humanities 202 are closed . . . Sign up now for Biology 102 and Western Civ. and avoid the rush." Lines stretched into infinity, misread directions, panic, muddled schedules, headaches . . . REGISTRATION.

"I said section 5!" "They finally got me in a Speech course, but it turned out to be advanced dramatics . . ." My advisor told me I had to take Psyc. and Biology . . . Why does an English major have to take Psyc. and Biology?" "They won't let me take 20 hours . . . I'll never get out of here!" "Is registration always this bad?"

Yes, it was! When it was over, more lines formed in the Pit to buy books. The Registrars office even joined in the competition for the longest lines, as students rushed to change their schedules.

Only the professors had been exempt. They had been replaced by the bane of the working man . . . I.B.M.!

A new course was offered at Otterbein this year, "Dining Out Banquet Style" . . . On selected Wednesday nights, applicants for the degree of advanced juggling lined up to take their turn at balancing plates of various delicacies . . . At the end of the course special awards were given for gourmandizing, securing the biggest haul for the guys back at the dorm, and "LSOOP." (Largest Stack on One Plate!)

"Support our men in Viet Nam." To Otterbein students the fighting on the otherside of the world became terribly real . . . "Blades and Blood" was a campaign in which everyone could give this support. Building upon the success of the "Blades and Blood" venture, the Otterbein R.O.T.C. sponsored a blood drive. . .

A special brand of encouragement was provided by the Angel Flight members . . .

The success of these two projects gave Otterbein students a great deal of pride and attested to the ability of the student body to meet the challenge . . .

When did Goldfinger turn pink or Cinderella run away with the Butler . . . How would the Otterbein football squad run plays if it were made of all girls . . . Does the good guy always win . . . What kind of nightmares do pledges have . . . Are actives really tyrants . . . Do all bright birds wear glasses . . . Anyone who saw the sorority pledge skits would say with a grin that anything is possible when the Cowan stage is filled with ingenious pledges . . . What's more rioutous than a group of uninhibited cutups?

PLEDGE

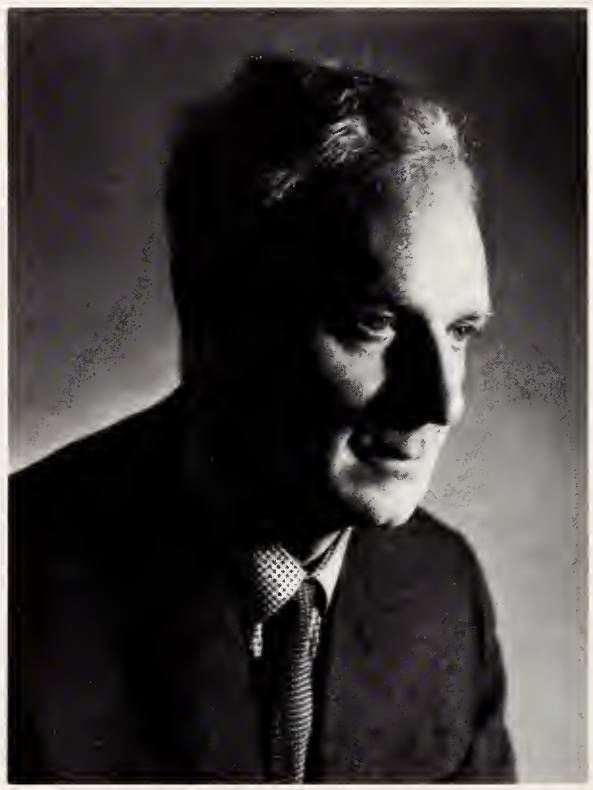
"We have to wear what in the dining hall" . . . "How about a nice spit shine, sir" . . . "44 inches with two sweat shirts, a sweater, and a jacket; what a chest expansion" . . . "I'm sorry, dear, but the champagne tastes disturbingly like pink lemonade . . ."

How to create a panic at Otterbein in three easy steps: Take one pledge; put her in the snack bar; yell air raid . . .

Traditionally Greek Week climaxed with Hell Day . . . The abnormal became normal. Pledges sang to the accompaniment of a reducing belt or scrubbed the mall with a tooth brush . . .

Even the thought of Hell Night only a few hours away didn't dim the spirit of a great day . . .

The scene was the Deshler-Cole . . . the characters were the fraternity men and their dates . . . The stars were the candidates for Miss Tan & Cardinal: Cheryl Muha, Witney Breidenbach, Jane Whearty, Barb Simon, Kay Needham and Kay Brinkman . . . At intermission, the panel of judges bestowed upon special star, Barb Simon, the crown and the title of Miss Tan & Cardinal of 1966 . . .



The winter cultural calendar offered a variety of programs: I Solisti Veneti, world renowned chamber orchestra, former CORE director, James Farmer, the Margaret Fisk Taylor modern dance group, Ken Hobbs, from Batelle Memorial Institute, who showed films on the first walk in space, poet Stephen Spender, and the Russian movie, "Ballad of a Soldier . . . "

. . . the Foreign Film Series included "Rashomon," a Japanese film; Moliere's "The Miser," and "Romeo and Juliet," were presented by the National Players; and Mr. Raymond Kordish visited the campus as a representative from the Peace Corps . . .

In the Emerald Iridescence of Spring . . .

The campus awoke to the sound of Hondas . . . Bicycles appeared, and convertible tops went down . . . Ice cream cones were a must, even in fifty degree temperature . . . If someone told us to "go fly a kite", we did . . . Cinders began to fly on the track . . . the smack of tennis balls resounded outside library windows . . . shades . . . bell bottom trousers . . . sandals . . . T-shirts . . . and, of course, cupid . . . Otterbein was all these, but to each of us it was also a kaleidoscope of emotions . . . apprehension . . . nostalgia . . . uninhibited enjoyment of life . . . And each of us shed our winter shell . . .

In how many ways spring made its presence felt . . . If one wasn't an athlete, he could always go out in the "385 horse shay" or "book it" in the sun . . .

Swing into Spring with campus casuals . . . fashions for parties . . . dances . . . picnics . . . and all kinds of summer fun . . . Again this year, the Home Economics club sponsored the style show for Mother's Week-End . . . The models for the show were women from the Home Economics Club . . .

Classes . . . Books . . . Exams . . . Who had time to think of them? The sun was warm, the breeze light, and the Honda was gassed . . . The world was too perfect to worry about academics . . . Tomorrow would be good enough . . . if it rained . . .

CAMPUS CENTER

Yes, it was Jump Week and the girls traded places with the boys . . . Each year the Pan Hellenic Council sponsors the all campus movie and dance . . . The theme for the dance was, "How the West Was Won" . . . The men profited this week, and the co-eds got to pick from the pledges a Jump Week King . . . His Majesty was Cecil Simpson from Kings Fraternity . . . The other candidates were: Ron Balconi, Club; Bob Dull, Jonda; Mike Leadbetter, Sphinx; Jack Whitson, Pi Sig; Cecil Simpson, Kings and Jack Booth, Zeta. Eddie Harris was the Dark Horse candidate sponsored by the T&C . . .

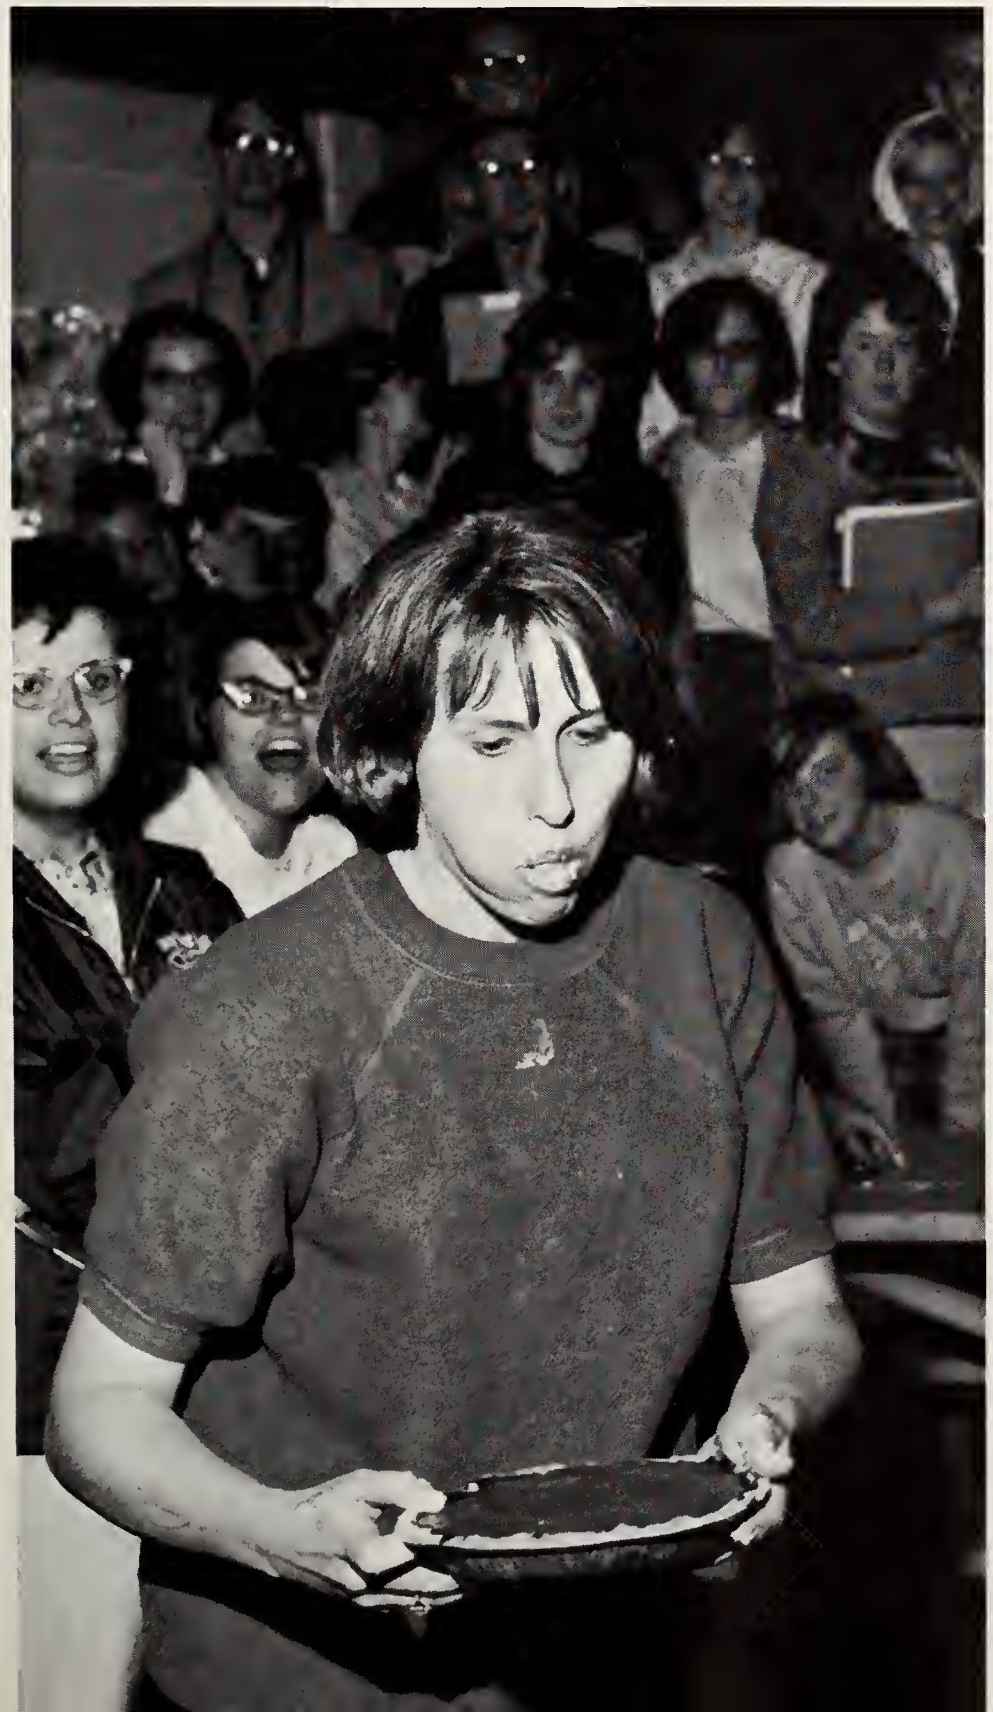
Lockbourne Air Force Base provided the setting for the Military Ball sponsored by the AFROTC . . . This was an annual event for the young men who were training to serve our country in the Air Force . . . Long gowns and dress uniforms added a finishing touch of dignity to an enjoyable evening . . .

Spring showed itself in many ways . . . trips to the D.Q. became a regular part of the routine—especially when they had a sale on banana splits . . . warm weather gave "proud papa" a chance to show off the newest member of the family . . . and studies came much more easily sitting in the shade of a tree . . .

The spring season brought some outstanding entertainers to Otterbein's campus . . . Among them were Peter Nero, the famed jazz pianist, and William Warfield, the celebrated baritone pictured here . . . Otterbein's own talent was well represented in the Theater Department's presentation of "Spoon River Anthology . . . "

As spring moved into summer, the campus celebrated the annual May weekend . . .

This year the festivities were expanded to include tricycle races, pie-eating contests, and scavenger hunts . . .



How many pies did it take to win the pie-eating contest? Julie Gauch shoveled down three—one cocoa-nut cream and two chocolate . . . Arbutus took the over-all prize for winning the scavenger hunt and the tricycle race . . .

The color and pageantry of May Day followed the theme "The Sound of Music . . . " music, dancing, and the anticipation awaiting the crowning of the Queen of the May . . .

The presentation of the Queen is always surrounded by suspense . . . No one knows her identity until she appears in the traditional white dress . . . Not even the Queen and her court escape the mystery . . . they are blindfolded while the special dresses which distinguish the Queen, Maid of Honor, and Attendants are put on . . . Attendants Gretchen Van Sickle and Ann Lawther first appeared on the balcony, followed by Maid of Honor, Carol Sorensen . . . 1966 Queen of the May, Barb Billings, then descended to the platform . . .

As fast as it all started, it was over . . . classes were done . . . finals were a thing of the past . . . summer vacation was here, and it was time to go home . . . the only evidence that there had been life in the dorms was the boxes in the hall packed for storage . . . and a stray drawer left open . . . or an old textbook left inadvertently under the bed . . .

The strangeness of a somehow empty campus . . . the rush of rehearsal . . . Baccalaureate . . . Commencement . . . packing . . . all greet the graduating senior on Commencement Sunday . . .

With the rush of Commencement, one doesn't really have time for much nostalgia . . . Tomorrow the world is at hand . . . and most will discover that it hasn't changed much in four years . . .

Suddenly it was spring, and there were couples everywhere . . . romances sprang up all over, and long walks and picnics in the park were in order . . . graduation and the end of the year meant future wedding bells for some . . . but for others it only meant a long separation for the summer . . .

ADMINISTRATION . . . FACULTY

A Liberal Arts College is a working composite of students, faculty, administration and executive board. Policy dictated by the executive board is executed for the benefit of the students by administrative officials and the faculty.

The lines of communication are intricate and sometimes become tangled, but through constant endeavor, the Otterbein family has remained intact and in touch.

As President of Otterbein, Lynn W. Turner has many duties. He presides over faculty meetings, hosts receptions, attends alumni functions, travels widely for the college, and chairs many committees within the college and without.

"Our man behind the camera," is Bill Skaates, Assistant Director of College Information.

College applications from all over the United States and Ohio are the concern of Michael Kish, Director of Admissions.

Books such as the Interpreter's Bible are at home in the office of Kenneth Pohly, Director of Religious Activities.

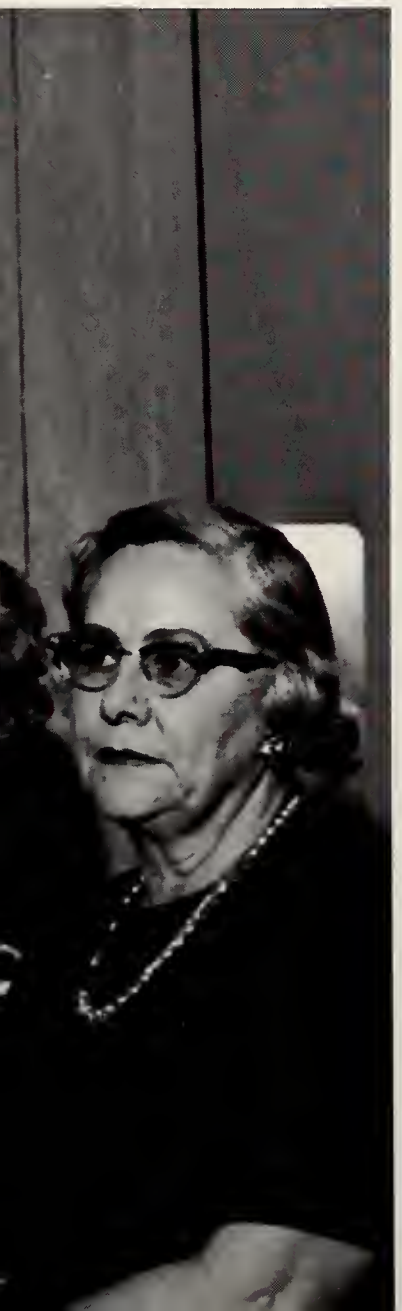
House mothers daily wade through a maize of telephone calls, late minutes, campuses and councelling. Below are housemothers: Mrs. Stoughton, Mrs. Bigham, Mrs. Weber, Mrs. Thomas, Mrs. Rider and Mrs. Swihart.

Chester Turner is Assistant Director of Development in Charge of Church Relations.

After a few years of absence, Richard Pflieger returned to Otterbein's campus as the Executive Director of Alumni Relations and Assistant Director of Development.



Al Mabbut or more commonly known as "Al the Cop," is Otterbein's Security Officer, a position of authority.

The services offered at Otterbein were many and varied. The cafeteria staff supplied the energy on which we bustled about campus. The custodians quietly picked up after us. Our occassional below average days were revamped by a visit to the Health Center.

Undoubtedly the biggest sport this year was basketball. The promise of a rewarding season was fulfilled as the Otters battled all the way to the finals of the Ohio Conference tournament before bowing to Akron 102—82. The 20—5 record set by the team established this as the "winningest" season ever for an Otterbein basketball team.

Does this happen often?

A "swisher" for Peters.

It's not gloom—just satisfaction!

Let's have another go at them.
Anyway you looked at it, it was a great season!

Yes, the tournament was great! Capital, Marietta, Wittenberg—all down . . . The tension was up. Akron could either make us or break us. We packed them into the Akron gym . . . almost 2000 of us—at least it seemed so. Spirits grew with each pep band number . . .

NCAA—Otters All the Way!

Was is possible? Almost . . . The Otters played for all they were worth but came out on the short end of a 102—82 score . . . It was a proud but disappointed group who went up to receive the runner-up awards . . .

"Mr. Big"

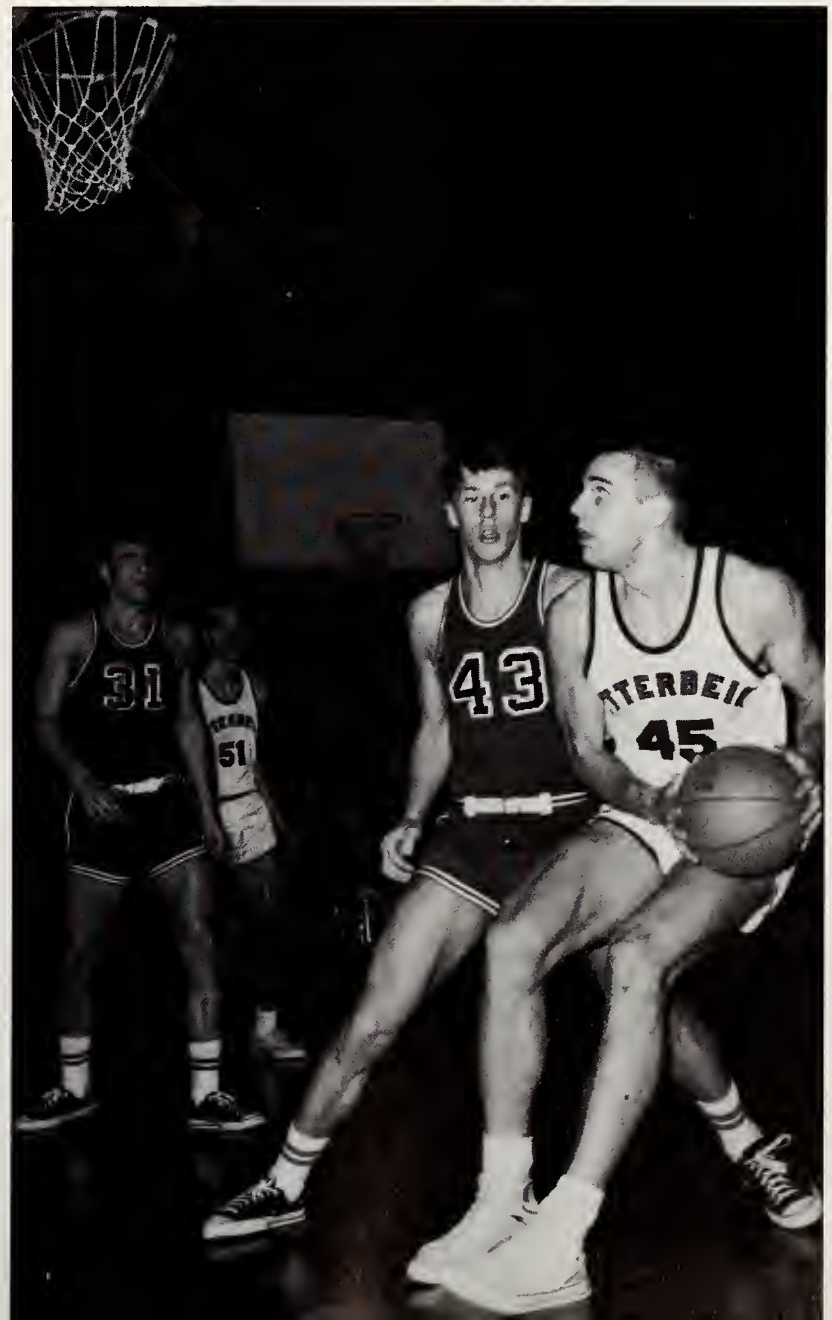
The big man at Otterbein this year was Don Carlos. For the third year in a row, Don, a junior, copped scoring and rebounding honors in the Ohio Conference. His season and career totals are both conference scoring records. Adding more honors, Don walked away with the Mike Gregory award for the Outstanding Ohio Conference Player and received a berth on the First Team, Little All-American.

He's good from anywhere.

Who's got a chance against that?

A proud wife smiles happily.

Goal by Carlos!



This shows promise!

Touring the south during spring vacation has become a traditional opener for the O.C. baseball team.

This season the Otters returned to campus to face the Ohio Conference lineup with a 1—7 record—against seasoned teams.

In the conference opener, the team defeated Denison 5—0.

O.K., Ump! What's the call?

Tension on the bench.

The young Otter track team made impressive showings in indoor track. Paced by lone senior, record breaker Wolfgang Schmitt, the team held its own and gave much promise for the future.

Even if you can't make it over, you can always lean on it.

I've got you beat by a toe!

Hold on, I've got it!

The Net . . .

The Otters on the courts went swinging through spring. The young team was in the process of rebuilding and gave a good show of their potential even though they dropped their opening match to Capital.

GREEKS . . .

From rush, through pledging, to activation . . . the process is time consuming, maybe, but to many Otterbein students it is important . . . The Greeks at Otterbein offer an arena for social contact, group participation, and opportunities for individual growth . . . Close ties of friendship are bound tighter through common goals and accomplishments . . .

Epsilon Kappa Tau

Epsilon Kappa Tau sorority, founded in 1918, today holds high the principles on which it was founded. Three little words, "Eros Kai Timi" or "Love and Honor" is the motto of the sorority. The Trailing Arbutus, a delicate pink and white five-petaled flower gives both its name and its colors to EKT. The pink and white is also represented by the silver shield of purity which symbolizes active membership in Arbutus. It is the endeavor of the sorority to live up to its creed, "I Would Be True."

Kappa Phi Omega was founded in 1921, by a group of young women from Westerville who chose the motto "Sisters and friends unto the end." The four rubies of the Kappa pin symbolize leadership, scholarship, friendship, and dedication, the goal of all members. The white pearls symbolize the unity of the group which provides the basis for individual development. The yellow chrysanthemum is the sorority flower, with turquoise and gold as the colors. Kappas are called "Scotties" after their mascot, the Scottie dog.

Rho Kappa Delta

Rho Kappa Delta Sorority was activated on the Otterbein College campus in 1923, by eight coeds. She was given the name "Arcady," symbolizing the land of friendship in Greek mythology. Arcady's colors of white and burgundy are echoed in her flowers, the white carnation and the burgundy pansy. The squirrel is her choice as a mascot. She treasurers as her motto: "Thoughtful each of all." Her objectives: to seek and obtain knowledge, to strengthen and encourage friendship, and to promote recreation—are embodied in the Arcady crest.

Tau Delta

Tau Delta Sorority was founded in 1921 with the original name of Tomo Dachi. The Greek letters were substituted later. The sorority was forced to disband in 1937 because of the depression but was re-established in 1943. The sorority mascot, a Siamese cat, was adopted in 1957. The sorority flowers are the white rose and the multi-colored sweet pea. The colors are sapphire blue and white.

Lambda Gamma Epsilon, or Kings Fraternity, was organized in 1948, with the royal colors of maroon and gold. "Loyalty to God, country, brothers, and Otterbein" is the motto of the Kingsmen. In its first few years, the fraternity held its meetings in the Association Building. The next residence was at 98 W. Home St., which has since been moved and converted to a college guest house due to the construction of the Campus Center. The Kingsmen now live in their "castle" at 138 W. Main St.

Pi Kappa Phi or Country Club was founded in 1908 and so named because it first met outside the city limits. It was the only fraternity to remain active during World War II. The colors are orange and black, and the fraternity motto is "Staunch friends at all hazards." The crest signifies the book of openmindedness, with the head of noble Caesar. The hands of friendship are clasped on crossed swords, and a group of four chevrons bind the men together.

The fraternity first appeared on Otterbein's campus in 1919 and thrived until World War II. In 1943, the entire membership was called to war. Sphinx reassembled in 1946; however, in 1951, the 38th division called all but two members into the service, and the fraternity never survived this crisis. In the fall of 1962, Sigma Delta Phi was again activated by seven students who felt the need for another fraternity at Otterbein. The official colors of the fraternity are green and white. The newspaper is called "The Grapevine." "Veritus ed nostros super-omnes" or "Truth to us above all" is the fraternity motto, and the fraternity flower is the American Beauty Rose.

Independents

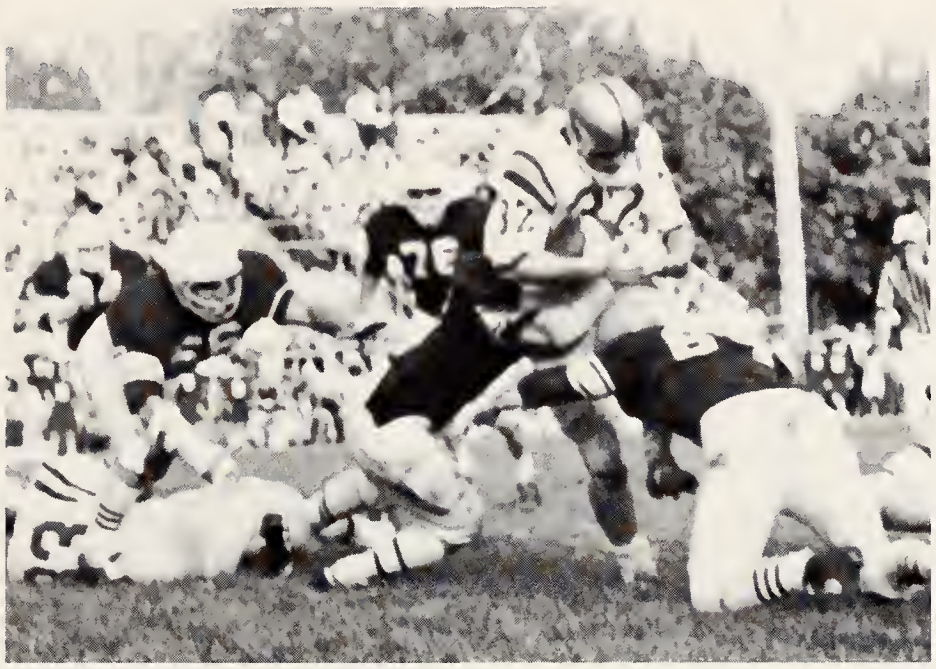
A valuable group in the Otterbein scene, but one often neglected when pictures are being taken, is the men who chose to remain independent from a Greek organization. Active in many fields, these men complete the Otterbein picture.



Independents participated in college athletics.

Miss Lana Rinehart

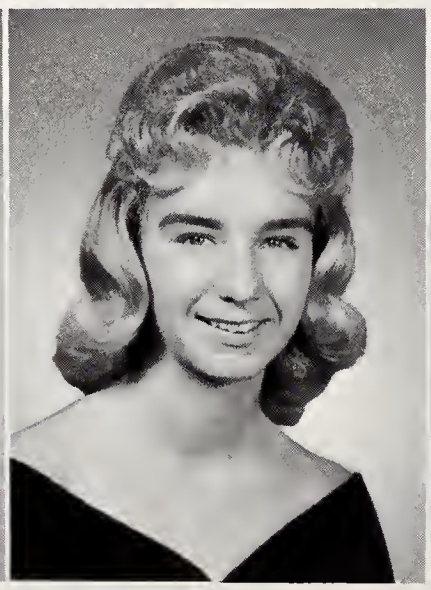
Miss Kam McClure

Homecoming Queen

Traditionally the Fall Homecoming Queen is a Senior. Each candidate represents a sorority, and the vote is by male students. Candidates this year were: Ruth Barnes, Kappas; Carol Sockel, Arcady; Sandy Svozil, Owls; Kam McClure, Arbutus, First Attendant; Lana Rinehart, Greenwich, Maid of Honor; and Queen Judy Morison, representing Talisman.

Miss Ruth Barnes

Miss Carol Sockel



Miss Sandy Svozil

Miss Sherry Washburn

Miss Judy Morison

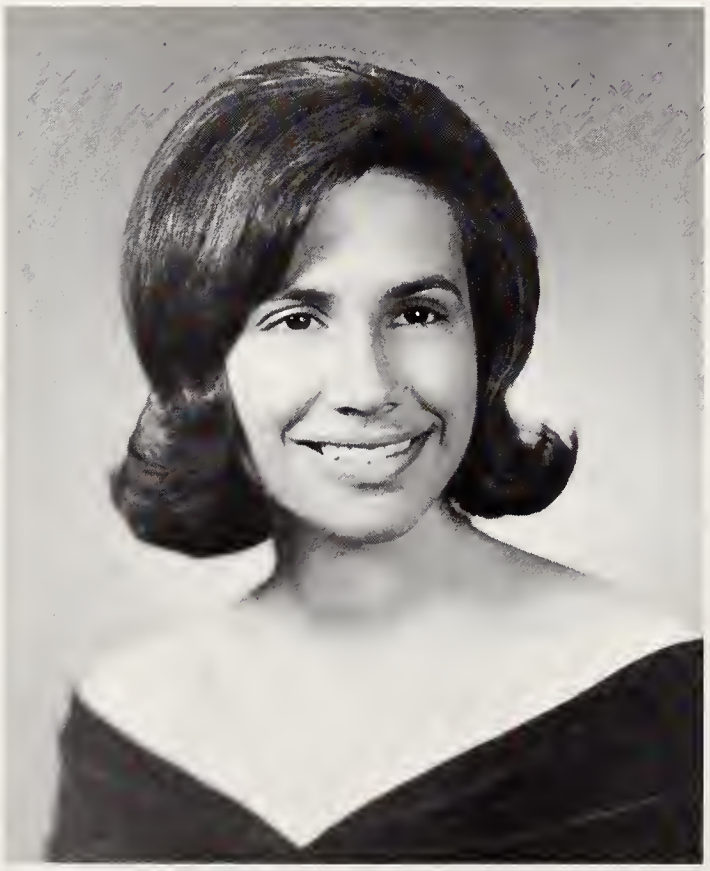
Winter Princess

Miss Eileen Coad

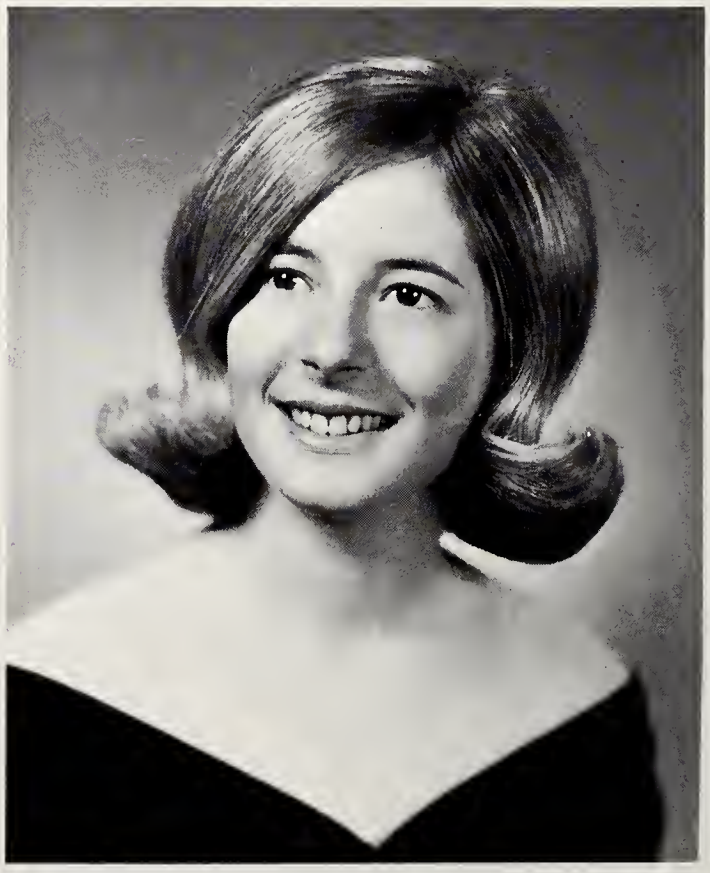
Suspense surrounds the selecting of the Winter Homecoming Princess. The Varsity O choses three sophomore girls. They are picked out of the audience by a roving spotlight during half-time of the homecoming game.

The 1966 Winter Princess was Eileen Coad; her Maid of Honor was Anne Barr; her Attendant was Barb Fisher.

Miss Anne Barr



Miss Barb Fisher



Miss Barb Simon

Miss T & C

Chosen by the fraternities from among the freshmen girls, the T & C candidates are judged by an impartial panel, and Miss T & C is crowned at the Interfraternity Dance.

The candidates and the fraternities which they represented were: Whitney Bridenbach, Kings; Kay Brinkman, Zeta; Cheryl Muha, Jonda; Kay Needham, Sphinx; Jane Whearty, Club; and Queen, Barb Simon, Pi Sig.

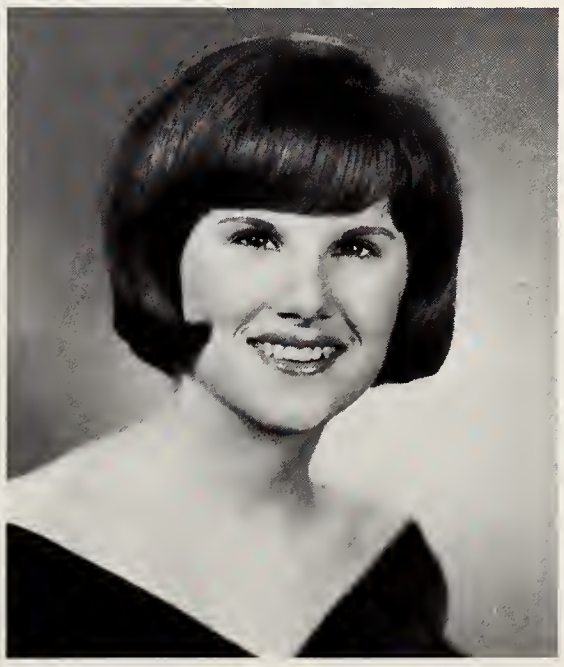
Miss Kay Brinkman

Miss Whitney Bridenbach

Miss Kay Needham

Miss Cheryl Muha

Miss Jane Whearty



Miss Jan Lenahan

Sibyl Queen

To the girl chosen by the Sibyl staff as Sibyl Queen goes the honor of being the Otterbein senior most representative of the school. She is traditionally a leader and exemplifies the spirit of Otterbein.

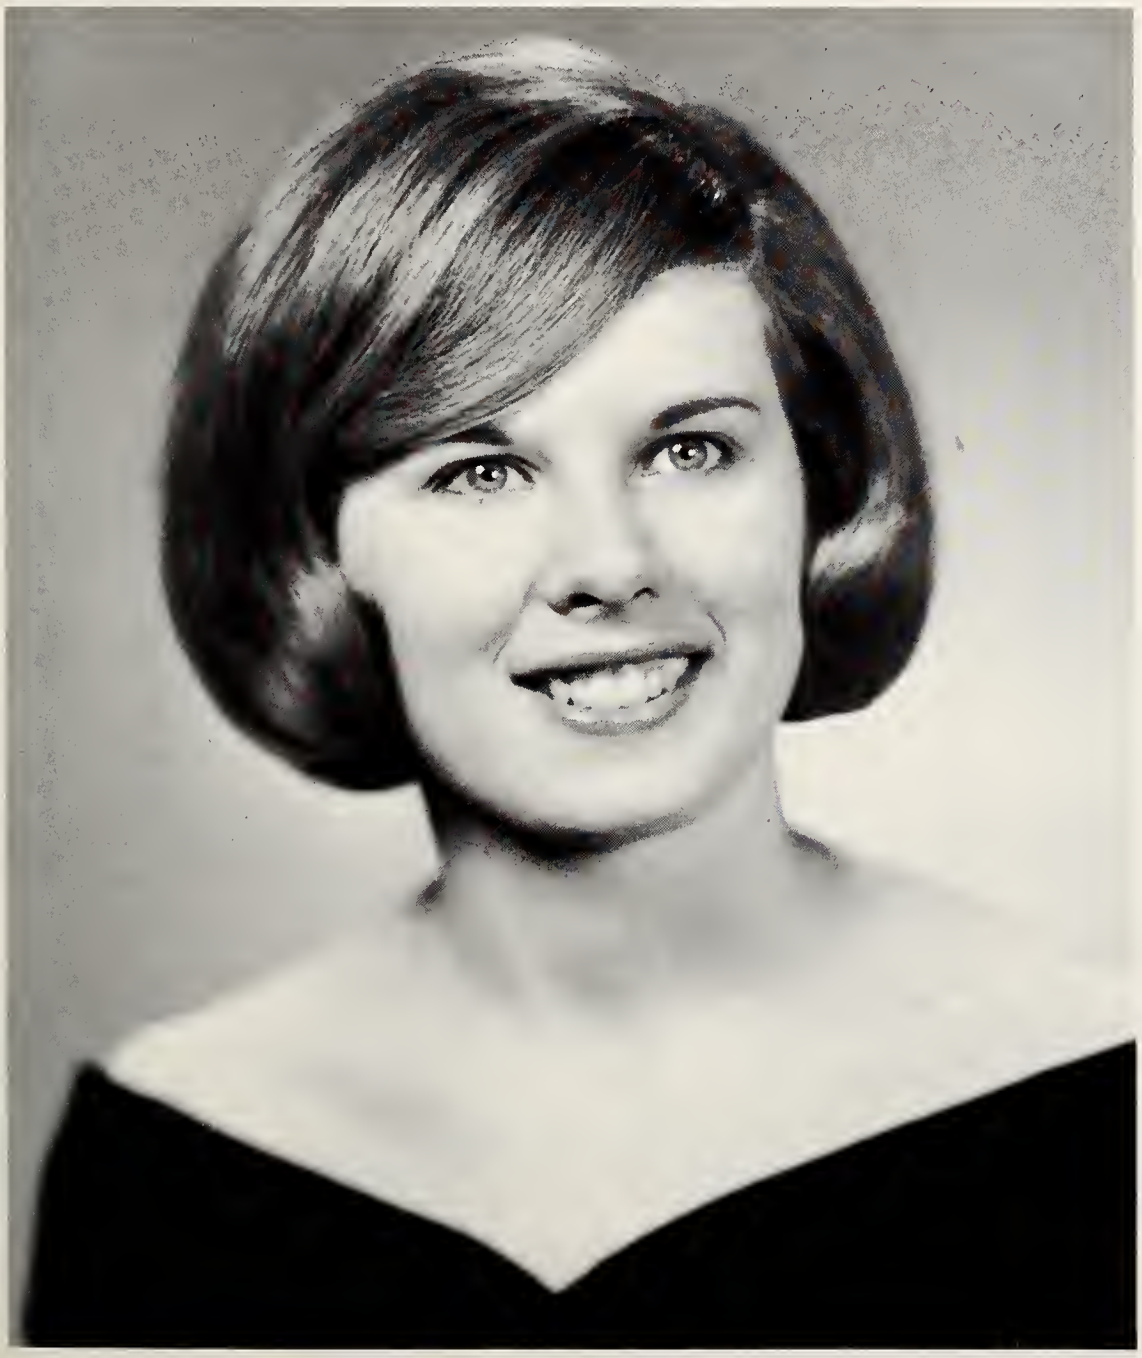
This year's Sibyl Queen is Jan Lenahan.

Miss Carol Sorenson

Miss Ann Lawther

Miss Gretchen Van Sickle

Miss Barb Billings



May Queen

With the essence of spring flowers and the joy of a new season, the Queen of the May reigns over May Day festivities.

The queen, a junior, is chosen by a vote of the entire student body. This year, the May Queen was Barb Billings; the Maid of Honor was Carol Sorenson; one Attendant was Ann Lawther; and the other Attendant was Gretchen Van Sickle.

SENIORS . . .

Four years ago they started their college career with the singing of the Otterbein Love Song on the lawn of Howard House . . . They were naive, excited, ingenuous . . . The years passed too quickly . . . Now they are to climax the "best years of their lives" with the same song, sung on the steps of the sosh building—just a few yards, but so many memories from the spot where it all began . . . To the senior, all the things that "Otterbein is" would become a warm, nostalgic memory as they became a part of the larger world at hand . . .

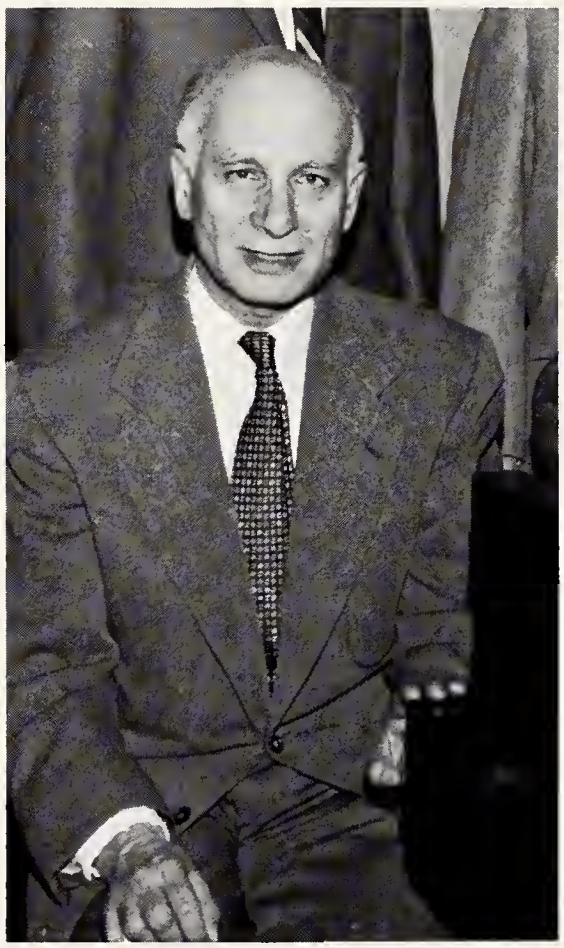
It is appointed unto men once to die . . . There is a time to be born and a time to die . . . One generation passes away and another comes . . .



Dr. Paul Frank

". . . And when he had lighted all of our candles, he walked quickly and quietly out of the room."

Terry Darby

"I believe in God, although the world is in total disorder, as right and truth always prevail . . ."

"Whenever you become entrenched in your own problems, go out and do something for someone else . . ."

(These phrases were found on a piece of paper in the pocket of one of Terry's suits . . . They were to be used in the texts of future sermons.)

". . . Like the tide at its ebb, I'm at peace in the web of your arms . . ."

Judy Fitzgerald

Death slew not him, but he made death his ladder to the skies . . .

A Final Word . . .

Well, we finally made it . . . the last deadline was sent in today . . . I can't believe that it's finally finished . . .

It's hard to explain what made up this year's Sibyl . . . besides the pictures and the copy . . . there were the long, long hours of lay-out work and typing, the panic and sleepless nights which preceded each deadline, and the tears and frustration when we couldn't get pictures in time or the copy wasn't right . . . but over all that, it was the joy and excitement of seeing the beautiful pictures and watching the lay-outs fall into place . . . it was the closeness of the staff members as we worked together and watched our creation . . . it was the knowledge that we "gave it our all" and the hope that the 1966 Sibyl will be the best ever . . .

Thanks go to all of the staff members for their work and determination, but I must add a special thank you to the following people whose help was "above and beyond the call of duty . . . "

Thanks to Jane Curfman, who singlehandedly tackled the Greek Section, to Nancy Staby, who tabulated the Index, to Ed Elberfeld and Bill Skaates, Pat McKenrick, and Dave Sampson, who took such wonderful pictures, to George Lindsey, who was always right there when we needed him (even though his phone was busy nine-tenths of the time), Craig Gifford, whose praise gave us the needed momentum when we were down, Ellen Williams, who stayed up all night to get the copy done; Al Myers, who let us steal all the T & C pictures; the faculty and administration for their cooperation; and Judi Garratt, for whom I just don't have enough praise . . . Judi was my right hand—she stuck by me through every crisis, and her work was always top notch . . . I can truly say that without Judi this book would not be a reality . . .

Finally, I must give a special thanks to my parents and my roommate, who were able to stand me throughout the year . . .
